Dear Mrs Giordmaina and 1G,

The last few weeks have been wonderful! Since moving in with my new family I have been lucky enough to know what it is means to feel special. They have taken very great care of me and are now busy teaching me lots of new things.

They play a game with a small ball or a long stick. Someone throws it as far away from them as possible and then I quickly run after it and bring it back to them. It's brilliant fun. We play it for hours and hours. Afterwards I am so tired I have to have a little nap.

I have been barking and growling at all the cats that come into our garden. They think I am asleep because I lie very still and close my eyes, so they jump down onto the grass and walk past me. When they come very close I spring up and chase after them! They don't play that so often now.

I was very worried about leaving my brothers and sisters at the zoo, but I am very lucky to be a pet because everyone looks after me. I get lots of cuddles and they know just where I like to be scratched on my tummy.

Love from

Fido Dog
