

Which kingdom is no longer recognised in the Linnaean system?

How is a species defined?

How many species of living things did he study before creating this?

Which two levels of classification give you the scientific name for a living thing?

When was the most important version of Systema Naturae published?

Why were more levels added to the classification system?